

About the Job

The System Administrator III position will include the following:

- Provide installation hardware, OS and software support for mission and baseline application servers to include but not limited, to all NEC-R supported versions of Microsoft, Apple, HP-UX, SUN Microsystems Solaris, Red Hat LINUX, and SCO UNIX.
- Provide system administration and Operating System (OS) support for thin client and mission and baseline application servers.
- Install security IAV patches on non-production servers to verify systems are not adversely affected by patches.
- Provide IAVM program support to include installation, monitoring, and reporting of security software upgrades and patches, firmware upgrade and patches, Security Readiness Reviews (SRRs), Windows Gold Disk settings, and STIG remediation.
- Perform security checklists on OSs and system backups for tenant supported mission and baseline servers.
- Monitor, analyze, and take corrective action on any abnormalities of system, security, and application event logs.
- Maintain accountability of NEC-R software licenses.
- Configure network printers/queues.
- Provide local touch labor for troubleshooting and repair of mission and baseline related tasks.
- Provide support in the migration to the latest release of software, to include but not limited to, impact analysis and the development of installation and migration methodologies, the development of automated migration tools and the modification of system software to accommodate the new operating system.

This position is located in Huntsville, Alabama

Minimum Requirements

- Position is contingent on a passing a background check and drug screening
- Position is contingent on obtaining CompTIA Security+ Certification with CE Designation
- Position is contingent on obtaining a Secret Security Clearance under the Department of Defense

About Us

NexOne, Inc. (NexOne) is a small business providing full spectrum IT, Engineering and Logistical Analysis support to federal and local government and private industries since 2000. Headquartered in Clearfield, Utah near Hill AFB, we provide professional services throughout the United States. NexOne has a strong customer base that is constantly growing due to our outstanding reputation. We attribute this reputation to our valued, dedicated and highly-skilled employees. NexOne is all about people, people with the right skills and the right experience to create innovative solutions to challenging problems.

NexOne is an Equal Opportunity Employer offering a comprehensive benefits package.